

ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

When a digital still camera stores moving image data in an image memory card, audio data obtained by a microphone and audio data of desired music obtained from a music memory card are mixed at a desired mixing ratio, and the mixed audio data is stored in the image memory card with the moving image data. Thereby, audio such as background music can be recorded at the shooting, and the reproduction of the moving image is enjoyable.